

Wimbledon estate agents, Brinkley's sees a return to the old ways.

Brinkley's Estate Agents, which has branches in Putney, Wimbledon Hill and Wimbledon Park, is experiencing a rush of house-hunters buying properties in the area.

"The increase suggests that people are returning to the days of the old adage, 'in times of trouble invest in bricks and mortar.'" said Robert Brinkley, Managing Director of Brinkley's Estate Agents. "Of course, this is not a full recovery just a very good month. This is particularly the case in our Putney office where we have noticed the marked increase in investment purchases

"There are still conflicting reports in the press about how well the property market is doing, along with predictions about its future performance and, unfortunately, it is very difficult to know exactly when is the best time to sell or buy. My recommendation has always been to take advice and then make up your own mind because there will be pros and cons for waiting or not and in the end, the best time is always now."

Brinkley's personnel include a knowledgeable sales negotiator in every branch, who will be able to offer advice and help customers find their ideal property.

Money markets may fluctuate and in these times of uncertainty, Brinkley's Estate Agents is finding that prices in SW London have remained relatively stable over the last few years, which is good news for vendors as well as investment buyers.

ENDS